

He is a graduate student in Shanghai Conservatory of music, majoring in Chinese percussion performance, under the guidance of Associate Professor Luo Tianqi. During school, he served as the percussion sound Minister of the Ethnic Orchestra of Shanghai Conservatory of music, participated in various major performances of the Ethnic Orchestra of Shanghai Conservatory of music and the percussion Orchestra of Shanghai Conservatory of music, and was invited to visit Vienna, Beijing, Hong Kong, Macao, Dunhuang and other places for exchange performances.

He won the first prize of "comprehensive scholarship for graduate studies" in school

In 2017, the 6th National Youth ethnic musical instrument education and teaching achievement exhibition activity (Wenhua Award) won the highest award of "percussion solo", "professional youth group a".

In 2017, the 6th National Youth ethnic musical instrument education and teaching achievement exhibition activity (Wenhua Award) won the gold award of "small ethnic musical instrument group".

In 2017, Shanghai Conservatory of Music International Percussion and the second IPEA International Percussion competition, the Chinese percussion group won the excellent performance award.

In 2018, he was invited to the 35th Shanghai Spring - rhythm of spring V - special concert for new people's new works

In 2019, he participated in CCTV China instrumental music TV competition and won the gold award of "non traditional combination group"

In 2021, the Canadian Rocky mountain music competition won the second place in the world percussion (professional adult group)

In 2021, the Canadian Rocky mountain music competition won the third place in the professional ensemble